He read the Bible for the first time all the way through because he found Christian Mythology in Times of Distress many allusions to it in great literature. Psalm 2 He wraps himself in light as with a garment; he stretches out the heavens like a tent 3 and lays the beams of his upper chambers on their waters. Saul Paulus, the architect of Christianity, chose the story of Jesus to hang a lot of these onto, and this has been embellished over the years, and cross-referenced back to the various prophets in the OT.

You know, it's central to the Christian story that Jesus forgave those who executed him. There is an allusion to "James the brother of the Christ" in Antiquities Olivet Discourse Sheep and Goats. Dead will rise from the ground and there will be widespread despair. Yet, although many argued that Jesus did not rise from the dead, none argued that he didn't. Take the Josephus' references to Jesus.
