In order to start a collective, each person in your business who will be handling product should also be legally prescribed medical marijuana. Delivery Dispatch One of the most important roles in any marijuana delivery service is the dispatcher. This will help in making sure that whoever makes a call will be in need of the services from you.

You can greatly reduce this cost with a delivery service if you have a small collection. It is extremely important to remember that once your delivery service has been approved for a license, every driver must carry a copy in their authorized vehicle. Patients enjoy when you can bring the dispensary experience right to their home or office. Lower up front costs, less exposure to law enforcement and hostile local citizens equals longevity for delivery services.

One state that has become particularly popular for this service is California. It comes to processing transactions, delivery drivers are able to transform their mobile devices into registers.
